

ABSTRACT

The present invention concerns a product made of transparent paper such as tracing paper or transparentized paper. Such a product comprises at least two transparent or translucent faces attached one to the other by a deposit of adhesive or glue, characterized in that the deposit of adhesive or glue has a specific shape visible by transparence and by reflection. Preferably, it comprises a front face, a back face, the back face comprising two flaps and a lower flap attached to the flaps by means of a deposit of glue having a specific shape visible by transparence and by reflection.